THE CONGRESSIONAL PRINTER,

SHOWING

The condition of the public printing, binding, &c.

OFFICE OF THE CONGRESSIONAL PRINTER,
Washington, December 6, 1875.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit to Congress, through you, the twenty-third annual report of this Office.

I am, sir, with respect, your obedient servant,

A. M. CLAPP,
Congressional Printer.

HON. T. W. FERRY,
President of the Senate.

OFFICE OF THE CONGRESSIONAL PRINTER,
Washington, December 6, 1875.

To the Senate and House of Representatives :

In obedience to the laws regulating the public printing, I have the honor to report to you "the exact condition, and the amount and cost of the public printing, binding, lithographing, and engraving; the amount and cost of all papers purchased for the same; a detailed statement of proposals made and contracts entered into for the purchase of paper and other materials; all payments made during the preceding year, under my direction; the amount of work ordered and done, with a general classification thereof for each Department; the number of hands employed in said establishment, and the time each has been employed; and such further information, touching all matters connected with said printing-office, as may be in my possession."

The tabular statements accompanying this report are for the year ending September 30, 1875, and presented in the following order :

No. 1. Showing the documents printed by authority of law or by order of either House of Congress, the approximate cost of printing and binding them, and the manner in which they were distributed.

The act of June 23, 1874, provides :

That for printing the preparatory circulars, and for printing and binding at the Government Printing-Office the report on life-insurance statistics, made, under the authority of the Eighth International Statistical Congress, by William Barnes, in accordance with plan of publication adopted at said Congress, under the direction of the Secretary of State, any unexpended balance of an appropriation for the above purpose made in the act of March third, eighteen hundred and seventy-three, is hereby continued and rendered available.

I would report that on the 29th day of June, 1875, Mr. William Barnes handed into this Office the copy of the above work. As the work could not be compensated out of the funds of the year ending June 30, 1875, but, if done at all at that late day, the expense must fall upon the appropriation for the year ending June 30, 1876, I respectfully declined to put the work in hand.

This question was submitted to the First Comptroller of the Treasury, and the following is his reply:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, FIRST COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Washington, June 30, 1875.

SIR: Your communication of yesterday's date has been received. For your information I reply that the appropriation referred to was in effect an appropriation for the fiscal year ending to-day, and subject to the general law relative to ordinary appropriations.

It was intended to cover expenses incurred for printing during that year, and no portion of it can be legally used for any printing purposes beyond June 30, 1875, when the appropriation will become unavailable.

Very respectfully,

R. W. TAYLER,
Comptroller.

A. M. CLAPP, Esq.,
Congressional Printer.

The Revised Statutes of the United States have been printed and bound under the requisition and direction of the Secretary of State, in accordance with the law and, I have reason to believe, to the entire satisfaction of that officer.

DEPARTMENT PRINTING AND BINDING.

STEREOTYPE FOUNDRY.

The following statement shows the amount and cost of work done in the stereotype foundry of this Office for the year ending September 30, 1875, and also what the same product would have cost the Government at trade-prices :

Value of work done, at trade-prices.....	$44, 860 48
Expense of labor and material for same .....	21, 336 52
Balance to credit of foundry.....	23, 523 96

The branch-office at the Treasury Department, which is subordinate to this Office, continues efficient and satisfactory in its results.

THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

I would most respectfully call your attention to table 6 of this report, which exhibits the expenditures on account of the Daily, the bound edition, and the material purchased for the Congressional Record, for the second session of the Forty-third Congress. This exhibit demonstrates the economy, to say nothing of the convenience, of having this work done by and under the full control of the Government. Thus far, experience fully vindicates the correctness of the predictions of those who advocated the wisdom and propriety of this measure. It is becoming more and more evident that this important and delicate branch of the public service can be quite as well and promptly performed at the Government Printing-Office as by private enterprise, and with less expenditure of the public money.

The bound volumes of the Record for the second session of the Forty-third Congress were four, including the index. These comprised 2,714 pages. These were ready for delivery, in part, on the 8th of May last, and the whole were delivered at the Capitol on or before the 14th day of October.

The sales of the Daily Record, during the second session of the Forty-third Congress, amounted to $2,313.04.

The printing of speeches for Senators and Representatives, from the type of the Record, during the session named, amounted to $5,069.61.

LABOR AND ITS COMPENSATION.

Section 3763 of the Revised Statutes provides that "the Congressional Printer may employ, at such rates of wages as he may deem for the interest of the Government and just to the employed, such proof-readers, compositors, pressmen, binders, laborers, and other hands as may be necessary for the execution of the orders for public printing and binding authorized by law."

In carrying out the requirements of this statute the question of labor and its compensation enters very considerably into the policy and economies of the conduct of this Office, and important and delicate duties are thereby devolved upon the Congressional Printer. He is expected to exercise a wise and just regard for the interests of the Government in the discharge of his duties, and at the same time to preserve an active sense of justice toward those employed. These requirements I have aimed to honor, so as to secure a prompt and efficient execution of the work and do impartial justice toward those who have been employed to aid that end.

The question has been repeatedly raised as to whether or not the rates of compensation paid for composition in this Office are higher than the interests of the Government will justify, or a proper sense of justice toward those employed will warrant. The compensation of this class of labor, during the six years and a half that I have been in charge of the Office, has been rated at 60 cents per 1,000 ems and $4 per day for eight hours, as established by law. I found this the policy of the Office when I entered upon my duties, and for prudential reasons, relating to its efficiency in meeting the requirements of Congress and the several Departments of the Government for the printing and binding authorized by law, I have not deemed it expedient to attempt a change.

It is my present purpose to report the bare facts of the case, to show Congress what considerations have controlled my action. The nominal price of composition in the Office, 60 cents per 1,000 ems, is regarded by many as in excess of what is for the interests of the Government and just to the employed. While I have no wish or purpose to controvert this point, it is but just to the management of the Office that I should represent the economies practiced, under which the expense of composition in the aggregate is reduced nearly, if not quite, 25 per cent. below the nominal price named.

The labor of composition, as I have before stated, is compensated either by the day, at $4, or 1,000 ems, at 60 cents. The policy of the Office is to execute the orders of the Supreme Court, the printing of the Congressional Record, and a portion of the plain document work in what is known as the piece department, where the labor is compensated at 60 cents per 1,000 ems. The rule and figure or tabular composition chiefly, the job work, the bill printing, and the journals of Congress, all regarded as exceedingly profitable to the compositor, are compensated at the rate of $4 per day. The Patent-Office printing and a portion of the document work are also compensated at the same rate.

Those conversant with the art of printing are aware that rule and figure or tabular composition is greatly in favor of the interests of the compositor when done by the 1,000 ems, as it commands double price, and is otherwise technically called "fat." Indeed, it is so much so, that expert compositors make upon it from $8 to $18 per day. A large percentage of the composition of this Office, being of that character, is compensated at $4 per day. Then, the job work of the Office, if performed by the piece, would cost the Government double what is now paid for it; and the same may be said of printing the bills and journals of Congress. Under this economy and division of labor, the expense of composition is reduced below 50 cents, and does not, in all probability, exceed an average of 45 cents per 1,000 ems.

In view of these facts, my convictions are very clear and strong that the rates of wages paid for the labor of this Office are not inconsistent with the interests of the Government, or unjust to those employed in this branch of its service.

IN CONCLUSION,

I would state that the printing and binding ordered by Congress have been completed, so far as practicable. In all cases where complete copy has been furnished, the printing has been done, and the binding and delivery have promptly followed. At no period during the past six years has this Office been so clear of unfinished work as at this time. I feel under renewed obligation to make favorable mention of the zeal, fidelity, and efficiency manifested by my subordinates in aiding the work of printing and binding for the Government.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. M. CLAPP,
Congressional Printer.
